SDSU Office of AANHPISI Affairs & APIDA Center Executive Director's Message

January 23, 2026

From Dr. Loh-Hagan: Jumping into 2026!

APIDA Center is jumping right into things. The semester started on Tuesday and we were busy hosting programs, attending meetings, hanging out, and more. We were thrilled to see our students back in our space - being silly and doing all the things!

There was a lot a buzz about the new year - new goals, new attitudes, new looks, etc. 2026 is a milestone year for APIDA communities. We have record-breaking political representation with Asian American mayors leading 8 major U.S. cities. As we celebrate 250 years since the Declaration of Independence, APIDA organizations are mobilizing to vote in the midterm elections. Asian Americans continue to be the fastest growing racial population group. Let's continue to be intellectually curious, bold in our endeavors, and vigilant in our solidarity.

Join us for lion dancing, martial arts demonstrations, activities, and Asian snacks! The APIDA Center along with several other APIDA campus organizations will be hosting fun activities to celebrate the Year of the Fire Horse! This year symbolizes passion, energy, change, and innovation. It favors bold action, courage, and willingness to transform.

Donor Spotlight: Marilyn Prall

APIDA Center loves puzzles!

Many thanks to Marilyn Prall for donating a ton of puzzles - including super fancy ones - to the APIDA Center. Ms. Prall is a retired teacher and principal. Back in the day, Dr. Loh-Hagan had the privilege of working for her at Liberty Elementary in Chula Vista. (Fun Fact: Many of their elementary students are now SDSU students. So weird!)

As our loyal readers know, our students love working on puzzles; this week, they completed two puzzles! Every day is a puzzle party at the APIDA Center.

APIDA Center learns about the Oyama family!

In the 1930s, San Diego's Japanese American community had grown significantly since the first Japanese immigrants arrived in the 1880s to work on railroad crews and in agriculture. They established businesses along 5th and Market Streets as well as Buddhist and Christian churches. At this time, the community was concentrated in Logan Heights and in rural areas like Chula Vista, Lemon Grove, and La Mesa. Japanese farmers cultivated celery, tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, and strawberries. Many others worked in the tuna-fishing industry, sailing from the Santa Fe Wharf. The second-generation Japanese American (or Nisei) came of age during this period, creating a distinct Japanese American youth culture.

Between 1934 and 1937, Japanese immigrant Kajiro Oyama and his wife purchased eight acres in Chula Vista to cultivate celery, tomatoes, and peppers. The California's Alien Land Act made non-citizens ineligible for naturalization and thus, from owning property. To circumvent this racist law, Oyama (as did other families) deeded the land to their U.S.-born son, Fred Yoshihiro Oyama (1924-?), who was a citizen by birth. In 1942, Executive Order 9066 was signed into law. This forcibly removed the Oyamas and approximately 120,000 other Japanese Americans from the West Coast to incarceration camps.

While the family was incarcerated, California petitioned to seize their Chula Vista land, arguing that deeding the land to Fred was intended to evade the Alien Land Act. In 1945, the San Diego Superior Court ruled in People v. Oyama that the land should be forfeited to the state. The following year, the California Supreme Court affirmed this decision. The Oyamas, supported by the Japanese American Citizens League (JACL) and the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. On January 19, 1948, the U.S. Supreme Court reversed the California courts' rulings in a 6-3 decision. The Court held in Oyama v. California (1948), that an American citizen's right to own land "may not be subordinated merely because of his father's country of origin."

The Oyamas reclaimed their Chula Vista property and California eventually ceased enforcement of its discriminatory Alien Land Law. This ruling helped San Diego's Japanese American community rebuild after incarceration.

APIDA Center Highlights: News to Know!

APIDA Center plays the Dewey Detective Scavenger Hunt!

On Tuesday, January 20th, we kicked off the semester with a fun game. Students transformed into "Dewey Detectives"! (Dewey is Dr. Loh-Hagan's dog who was raised by the APIDA Center when he was a puppy.) We were challenged to find Dewey pictures hidden around the Center. In doing so, we learned about APIDA Center resources, solved a riddle, and earned a free APIDA T-shirt. However, one student was disappointed because she thought we were hunting for the real Dewey - unfortunately, that dog is too big to hide! (He went from 7 pounds to 70 pounds!)

APIDA Center gets social and breaks the ice!

For the first Game Night of the semester, we discussed the benefits and challenges of being social in college and then played a variety of icebreakers. We learned some skills and strategies for communicating with peers and for making new connections. Friendships are made one conversation at a time!

APIDA Center hosts a Golden Globes Watch Party!

Did you know that winning awards increases visibility, opportunities, and earning potential? So, it matters. On Wednesday, January 21st, we learned about the history of APIDA representation in the Golden Globe awards show. Then, we watched a Golden Globe-winning film!

APIDA Center makes vision boards!

On Thursday, January 22nd, we collaborated with the Asian Pacific Student Alliance (APSA) to host a Vision Board workshop! We visualized our goals and discussed ways to maintain accountability to actualize our goals for the new year. Many thanks to Nora Pham and Joshua Co! To paraphrase Yoda: "Do or do not. There is no try."
